SCOPE OF PROJECT

The Kinooaadziwin Education Body (KEB) is seeking a contractor to draft a research proposal for the KEB to seek funding to support longitudinal research on Anishinabek student success and well-being. The proposal must include the research framework, design, implementation and budget plan. The KEB plans to conduct a study of Anishinabek student success and well-being over a period of 12 years for students attending schools on-reserve and those attending school off-reserve. The intent of the study is to determine the impact of the implementation of the Anishinabek Education System, a First Nation controlled education system, on Anishinabek students. The study is intended to allow the Anishinabek First Nations to identify developments and changes in Anishinabek education, at both the group and individual level. This will enable the Anishinabek First Nations to support decisions and investments in programs and services that enhance Anishinabek student success and well-being. The research proposal is intended to provide a comprehensive approach to identifying and understanding the degree and direction of student achievement and well-being changes over time. A logic model has been developed to support the research project. The contractor will consult with the Data, Research and Evaluation Committee, a joint committee comprised of Anishinabek First Nation, KEB and Ministry of Education representatives, to draft the proposal.

TIMELINES

The longitudinal research study proposal must be completed by October 1, 2019.

FEES

Total contract is for $15,000 inclusive of costs. There is a 10% hold back pending acceptance of the proposal and evaluation by the KEB.
